Legislative Committee Resumes Investigation Of Charges Against Democratic Leaders

By J. WILLIAM THEIS

HARRISBURG, Sept. 8.—The mass of documentary evidence behind District Attorney Carl B. Shelley's charges of graft in the Earle administration at last became the Pennsylvania legislature's own legal oyster today.

With Shelley himself its first witness, offering admittedly only "hearsay" testimony, the house investigating committee began its search for "competent" evidence on which were based accusations against Gov. George H. Earle and 13 other Democrats.

PA NEW OBSERVES

As a motorist do you know that Pennsylvania has more miles of improved state highways exceeding two lane widths than any of the other states except New York. Our mileage of three, four and six lane highways now totals 1,112. A section of the New Castle-Youngstown road is the latest to be widened in Lawrence county.

The job of being postmaster brings back his boyhood days very vividly to Postmaster Richard A. Steen. Every time he looks out of his office window he can gaze on the place of his birth, for he was born on Jefferson street, just across the street from the post office.

Maybe we're wrong. Recently it was said in this paper that summer officially ends on September 21. Now a constant reader checks us up by saying that this year it ends on September 22, for some reason he can't figure out. Neither can we.

Proposed safety driving classes in New Castle will be a boon to the man who has to teach his wife to drive a car. Usually a woman will listen to a stranger, and try to carry out his instructions, but the same woman will often become peevish at her husband's suggestions. She appears to take it that he is trying to find fault with her, while nothing is further from his thoughts. In general, it is better to have a stranger do the teaching and thus the proposed driving school will supply a long felt want.

Farmers are advised to write down the license numbers of strangers who come scouting around their places in the guise of salesmen or peddlers. These will be of value should there be any depredations in the community, and if nothing happens no harm can result from taking the auto numbers. Legislative-Graft Probe Developments

(International News Service)
Legislative-graft inquiry developments today included:
1—District Attorney Carl B. Shelley was to appear at 2 p. m. (EDT) today before the House investigating committee to resume his testimony begun last night.
2—Charles J. Margiotti, former attorney general, and his ex-deputy, Edward Friedman, were to testify tomorrow starting at 10:30 a. m. (EDT).
3—Shelley's early testimony was largely preliminary and technical with actual details of the evidence in his possession still to be divulged. While admitting his evidence was "all hearsay," he said he had names of 374 witnesses involving 208 persons.
4—The legislature was in week-end adjournment until next Monday evening after a two-day session during which it enacted into law a $25,000,000 stop-gap relief appropriation, the $75,000,000 Thompson school construction bills, and a measure providing for state medical aid for the indigent.
5—The state supreme court, having opened Shelley's evidence to the legislature, deliberated on the constitutionality of the special session's probe bills. Argument was heard Tuesday.

Hitler May Fall Back On Plebiscite Demand In Sudeten Controversy

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 8.—Determined to fall back on his demand for a plebiscite if everything else fails, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler moved personally to settle the new Sudeten autonomy dispute today and launched direct conversations with Great Britain for an amicable solution.

The Fuehrer sent Konrad Henlein, Sudeten party leader, on a swift visit across the border to Mahrtsch-Ostrau, scene of disorders which led Sudetens in Prague to suspend their negotiations with the Czechoslovakian government.

Under direct orders from the Fuehrer to "liquidate" the Mahrtsch-Ostrau situation, Henlein arose from a sickbed and motored to the border town late last night. He returned to Nuremberg at 11 a. m. today. Results of his visit were not immediately known.

It was Hitler's plan, however, to have Henlein re-establish his "calm contention" that suspension of the Prague negotiations at the present moment would be prejudicial to his own direct negotiations with Great Britain.

To Resume Negotiations
Thus the assumption here was that if Hitler has his way, current Sudeten indignation over the alleged mishandling of two Sudeten deputies by Czech police at Mahrtsch-Ostrau will be down and the Prague negotiations be permitted to resume.

The Anglo-German conversations proceeded here, with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop expounding the Fuehrer's views on the situation to Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador.

Meanwhile, French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet departed from the Nazi party congress, apparently disappointed over his failure to elicit any definite statement (Continued On Page Two)

Decision Near On Recent Acts Of Legislature

Supreme Court May Rule On Validity Of Acts On Friday

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The state supreme court today resumed consideration of the validity of recent acts of the general assembly which forced the Dauphin county grand jury to stand aside until the house of representatives has completed its investigation of conspiracy charges against the Earle administration.

The tribunal also has before it the question whether Attorney General Guy K. Bard may supersede District Attorney Shelley as director of the grand jury inquiry. In the event the latter is permitted to proceed concurrently with the house committee's probe.

Rulings on both questions may be announced tomorrow, Chief Justice John W. Kephart intimated after the high court in an "interim order" explained it would arrive at decisions "only after the most thorough investigation, study and consideration" because of the "utmost gravity" of the question involved.

Earle Approves New Program Of Construction

Total Of $32,744,619 For Projects Estimated To Be Started This Year

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 8.—Gov. George H. Earle today approved a new general state authority construction program totaling $32,744,619 on which it was estimated work could be begun this year. Another long-range program totaling $71,272,000 was also approved, subject to new PWA appropriations by Congress.

Plans for the $32,744,619 program, it was said, could be ready for presentation to the PWA before the September 30 deadline. Work on these must be started before January 1. Projects for which it was felt plans could not be prepared by September 30 were included in the $71,272,000 program. Should Congress authorize a new PWA program next year, work could be begun on those also.

General state authority bonds would cover 55 per cent of the $104,016,625 total program—or the loan portion. The balance would come from PWA as an outright grant. The new $32,000,000 program—that on which work could be begun this year—is varied in extent, calling for improvements to hospitals, state teachers colleges and the construction of police barracks, armories, farm show additions and the like.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 8.—Stung by government charges of insincerity, Sudeten German leaders today steadfastly refused to resume negotiations over the autonomy issue until the disorders at Mahrtsch-Ostrau are thoroughly investigated.

Talks remained suspended pending an official report of the ministry of the interior on the alleged maltreatment of two Sudeten deputies.

The government promised punishment of the guilty persons—if any—but charged that Sudeten reports greatly exaggerated the affair.

The Sudetens are lacking in good will, they are actually planning to scuttle all negotiations in the event the government's explanation is unsatisfactory.

Britain May Issue New Statement On Czech Policy

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon are considering issuance of a new and stronger British statement of policy with regard to Czechoslovakia, the Evening News reported today.

The statement, it was said, would be couched in "more precise terms" than heretofore "in order to remove doubts believed still to exist in Germany" with regard to the British attitude.

Britain's policy thus far has been expounded by Chamberlain and Sir John Simon in speeches warning definitely that invasion of Czechoslovakia might precipitate a general European war into which Britain could not help but be drawn.

LARGE GROUP AT CITY HALL SESSION

Business leaders thronged council chambers, city hall, today and urged council to name a committee to look into the possibility of acquiring vacant industrial properties for the purpose of trying to induce new industries to locate here.

Council unanimously adopted a resolution to this effect. Mayor Charles E. McGrath and colleagues promised to name the committee not later than Monday.

The resolution was as follows: Resolved: That the Formation committee of the Greater New Castle association go before the honorable body of council and request that body to appoint a committee to look into the possibility of acquiring vacant industrial properties, contacting owners or agents of such property as to price for the sale or lease of those plants.

Allegheny County Grand Jury Expected To Probe "Consent Verdict Scandal"

CITY SOLICITOR HAS RESIGNED PLACE

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8.—Allegheny county's grand jury today was expected to take a hand in the consent verdict scandal after the first member of the bar to face criminal proceedings as a result of the huge out of court settlements was held for court on a charge of fraudulent conversion.

The attorney, Jacques R. Le Vine, was held on the accusations of his former client, James Vail. Le Vine was accused by Vail before Alderman Timmons of paying him only $1,000 of a promised $3,040 after the lawyer negotiated a $5,750 verdict with the city for injuries his client claimed he suffered when he tripped over an exposed water box on a city street. Later, when the consent verdicts were exposed in the newspapers, Vail testified, Le Vine gave him another $500. Le Vine has fled charges of blackmail and extortion against Vail.

Plaintiff "Not Guilty"

Le Vine gave no testimony and pleaded "not guilty." His $3,000 bond was continued.

City Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard has resigned as a result of the revelation that he negotiated a record total of $350,000 in verdicts against the city without court trials for falls suffered on city streets and similar mishaps. A taxpayer's suit has been filed to prevent payment of Vail's judgment on the contention that Vail was guilty of contributory negligence since the water box was plainly in view.

Vail, who came here from Johnstown, claimed Le Vine told him $3,000 of the $5,750 verdict which the city had agreed upon had to be "turned back to a certain person in the city." This "person" was not identified.

What the final decision of the Sudetens will be remained in doubt at a late hour this morning. It was assumed that with Konrad Henlein, chief party leader, taking a hand in the investigation the ultimate decision might rest between him and Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

They pitched camp for the first night near east Moravia. They characterized the Mahoning as too shallow for boating, too dirty and unpleasant for parks, too stuffed up with chemicals for fishermen. The nicest thing they saw on it was the New Castle sewage disposal plant, where they anchored long enough to find out that the plant receives 3,500 to 4,000 gallons of sewage per minute, treats it with chlorine to kill bacteria and settles the sludge in 24 concrete tanks from where it is pumped to beds where it hardens and is hauled away.

MARGIOTTI WILL BE KEY WITNESS IN GRAFT PROBE

that former Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti and others under committee subpoena would become the key witnesses rather than Shelley.

Doggedly insisting the committee would take "all the evidence—not just half of it," Shelley disclosed his investigation had drawn upon the information of 374 witnesses involving 208 persons.

Shelley was directed to appear again this afternoon, while Margiotti, from whom the prosecutor said he received his first graft charge evidence, was to testify tomorrow morning.

The committee got its "go ahead" yesterday from the supreme court which lifted a lower court order impounding Shelley's evidence and testimony for the local grand jury. The latter's inquiry has been temporarily halted, pending further high court rulings on new legislation.

Identifies Many Witnesses

Planked by his aides in a house chamber jammed to the doors with legislators and curious spectators, Shelley identified at least three score of his witnesses, among whom were ones linked by reference with these of his charges:

The alleged "sale" of beer legislation in 1935 and 1937.

Political "kickbacks" from firms or individuals doing state business— affecting truck, building supplies, and road material purchase.

Shelley told the committee headed by Rep. Herbert B. Cohen, D., York, that he had all the documentary evidence behind his charges except "those on the Erie gravel scandal."

These, he testified, were still in Margiotti's hands. He admitted that although he had not seen these papers, he "knew the contents" and based his graft charges upon them.

"Mr. Chairman," he repeatedly declared amid clashes with Abram Salsburg, committee co-counsel, "I'm perfectly willing at this time to read into the record everything that I have."

House In Uproar

The house broke into an uproar as Shelley conceded under the sharp questioning of Salsburg: "Everything I have is hearsay evidence. Everything I have was given to me by witnesses."

Among Shelley's witnesses named as he began listing the 374 persons whom he had interviewed, was Spurgeon Bowser, of Kittanning former president of the Peonier Materials Company.

The Peonier Materials Company figured in the so-called Erie "gravel scandal" by reason of its alleged submission of sub-standard materials on state highway contracts. In Shelley's amended petition for a grand jury inquiry, he named Bowser in connection with the "gravel scandal" and political kickbacks.

Among Witnesses

Other witnesses named by Shelley included Joseph Cunningham, assistant director of the General State authority, and a close personal friend of Governor Earle; I. E. Penrod, Johnstown, who he said provided a "roll of movie film" being held in evidence, and Jacob Schmitt, New York, who investigated lime stone for Shelley in the new state finance building, on which the construction contract is held by Matthew H. McCloskey, Jr., one of those accused by Shelley.

Margiotti, then attorney general, first brought the graft "evidence" to his attention, Shelley told the committee, relating:

"I received a call from Mr. Margiotti to come to his office—that he had matter to discuss with me. I left my office immediately and came up to Mr. Margiotti's office."

This was on April 27, the day Governor Earle dismissed Margiotti from his cabinet post for refusing to disclose the evidence behind his primary campaign charges or make arrests.

Explaining the lapse of time in connection with his receipt of the summons and his visit, Shelley observed:

"When he called me to come up he was the attorney general. When I got there, he wasn't."

Margiotti, he said, turned over some papers to him that day.

Met Margiotti Again

The next day, April 28, Shelley met Margiotti in the chambers of Judge William M. Hargest of the Dauphin county court. Present were Judges Hargest, Wickersham and Fox, the latter two also of Dauphin county, and Fred Morgan, Shelley's first assistant. Morgan is the local Republican county chairman, elected to that post "about a month after the investigation started," Shelley said.

Shelley testified that stenographic notes were taken on all the conferences with the judges and Margiotti. He promised to produce them.

Outbursts of applause during the frequent clashes between Salsburg and Shelley or his associates caused the committee to threaten to clear the chamber in order to maintain the "judicial character" of the hearings.

In Public Sessions

During one lengthy sidebar conference, Shelley met a suggestion from one committee member that the mass of evidence be gone over in committee session attended by him, in order to speed its presentation, by saying:

"Everything you get from me, brothers, you'll get in public sessions. Everything will be made part of the public record."

"You're not going to run this hearing," Salsburg hurled at Shelley at one point in their series of verbal exchanges.

"No, I'm not going to run it, but you're not going to take half of it (the evidence)—you're going to take it all," retorted the stocky little county prosecutor heatedly.

Again, arguing with the committee for his right to offer explanations—most of which went into the record before the committee could enforce its "just a minute, Mr. Shelley" exclamation—Shelley declared:

"If the rules of evidence are in order here, you might as well send me home."

"Everything I have is hearsay evidence."

Everybody stayed until midnight, however.

had been arranged for the purpose of ascertaining if industrial sites might be acquired.

During the meeting C. Ed. Smith, Harry Clark, Paul Butz, Lou Miller, former Senator George T. Weingartner, Norman Clark and Herb McGowan spoke. Each of them favored the resolution. They felt that with councilmen's aid the industrial prestige the city once held could be regained.

Ideal Time To Act

C. Ed. Smith, the first spokesman, said the present is an ideal time for the move to get under way. He said that, fortunately, this city has had practically no labor difficulties, whereas considerable labor trouble has existed in other cities.

Smith expressed the belief that the city has an excellent opportunity to secure new plants and urged the appointment of a committee to look into the acquisition of properties referred to in the resolution.

He also stated that if the council could help to bring industries here it would make their jobs easier inasmuch as it would result in more revenue. He said the acquisition of new industries would aid merchants and result in a larger community.

Harry Clark of the South Side Board of Trade, said he comes into contact with a large number of workmen. He said these men believe there should be more work here. They appreciate WPA employment, Clark added, but said they would better appreciate work in industries.

Must Work Together

Paul Butz said his heart goes out for the younger people. He said boys and girls who graduate from school cannot secure work and do not want to go on relief. He explained the prestige, industrially, the city held under the Pittsburgh Plus system.

Since the removal of the Pittsburgh Plus system employment has been lessened considerably. He said the state is taking care of those who need food and then asked, "But what is the state doing for people who do not want to go on relief?" He cited instances while in World War service of what a group had done to benefit an A. E. F. camp in Belgium. He said the city needs a strong leader who can command a group which, by working together, can bring about better industrial conditions.

Butz could not praise New Castle enough. He advised that petty differences be swept aside. "New Castle can be everything it once was if we will work together and put our shoulders to the wheel," he concluded.

Lou Miller of the Retail Merchants association, said the merchants favor the resolution which had been presented and would like consideration with early action.

Herb McGowan, retired businessman, said, "I am in favor of this move. This is my home town. I think it is the best thing to do that I know of."

Letter From Steel Co. Head

Mayor McGrath next read a letter from J. L. Perry, president Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, in which Perry said the company would be pleased to cooperate with him and would welcome any suggestion offered.

The mayor explained he had heard the company contemplated disposition of the New Castle Works building and he had offered in behalf of council to make a tax adjustment, without expense to the company, if the company would let the building stand.

Former Senator George Wein-gartner said: "We are living in a changing area. There is a drift in population and industry and every town is trying to hold its position." He said the great industrial leaders like the Pattersons, Jamesons, Johnsons and Mooreheads are gone.

Must Depend Upon Ourselves

He said plants now are locating in the most advantageous location they can secure and said that "We must now depend upon ourselves in the future." He said a large number of people who helped to organize and finance small industries of New Castle, owing to the depression, are not now able to do this.

The former senator said that, "we as a city" can bring about improvements. He described how large plants, abandoned in the New England states, had been parcelled out to smaller industries and work provided.

"We have everything one can desire, except one thing, and that is, work for men and women, and to get this, we must interest industry," the ex-senator advised.

He advised collective co-operation between the citizens and members of council. He said, "It is true we have good churches, good schools, good parks and good paved streets, but said they cannot be eaten."

Weingartner's plea was to interest industry and results could be secured and then went on record as being in favor of the request that council adopt the resolution and conduct the plant investigation in the hope that industry may be induced to locate here.

Council did so.

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels each day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those road old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." DAVIS CUP STAYS HOME

BECAUSE a scrupulous foot-fault judge insisted that the hop, skip and jump serve employed by Mr. Quist had no sanction in the book of tennis rules, the Australian's game crumbled on the courts of Manheim and with it crumbled Australian hopes of logging off the cherished Davis Cup.

It is unfortunate that a technically sound have cast a shadow, however slight, upon the American victory. But it is highly probable that the ever-winning Donald Budge would have overcome his rival just the same had the fault not been called and Quist's game had not collapsed under the strain of official censure. The champion did not display his best wares in the day's contest, but he did not have to.

The fault-finding judge was only adhering to the rules of lawn tennis in wagging his critical finger at Quist's play. Unless the regulations are enforced in tournament play there is no slightest reason to retain them. Those who look with favor upon the flying tackle variety of serve should try to get the rules changed.

In any event, the Cup stays home for another year and the tennis public can now turn to Forest Hills for the national championships. With Budge's transfer to the professional ranks a distinct possibility, the performance of the younger Americans in the singles will be watched with added interest, looking to future Cup defense. For if the Manheim matches showed anything it was that in Bromwich, Australia has a first degree star, second perhaps only to Donald Budge. And a Budge-less American Davis Cup team next year may have plenty of trouble holding on to the trophy—with or without footfault rules.

SEPARATED TRAFFIC ROUTES

Tardily Pennsylvania enters the divided highway field on a big scale with plans for four lanes separated by six feet of greensward on Route 30 between Adamsburg and Irwin, Westmoreland county.

Little New Jersey has enjoyed the super safe, divided highway for many years.

Shore-bound Pennsylvanians who motor over the Black Horse Highway report less eye strain, a relief to nerves, less accident danger. They are also able to maintain a uniform speed.

In the separated lanes all traffic moves in one direction. The oncoming fender-skimmer disappears as a hazard and driving is ever so much more enjoyable.

There is little doubt that in years to come main routes will be divided.

No better or cheaper use of six feet of earth can be made than by sandwiching it between parallel roads.

New Pennsylvania main highway construction should follow this principle since the added cost is trifling and it is far better to have six feet of earth between motorists than on top of them.

RUSSIA'S WORST CZAR

Soviet propagandists in this country and elsewhere are meeting up with lean days. One of the surreptitious wisecracks going the rounds in Moscow is to the effect that Stalin, after killing all his friends, is beginning to draw on his acquaintances for material for the firing squad.

The soviet naval commissariat has authenticated reports that appeared in the press some time ago to the effect that high-ranking officers and experts of the soviet navy had been shot. Among them are Admiral Orlov, a former commander-in-chief of the red navy; Admiral Sivkov, commander of the Baltic fleet; and Admiral Ludry, head of the naval academy. They were executed as fascist spies, the reason always given by Stalin for liquidating his enemies.

In addition to those known to have been led before a firing squad, many other officers have disappeared without explanation and it is assumed that they were executed as "traitors" and "enemies of the people." In consequence of its "purges" the red navy does not today have a single officer who occupied a high place a year ago.

William Henry Chamberlain, writing in the current issue of the American Mercury, characterizes Stalin as "Russia's worst czar." Looking back upon the history of the czars, some of whom were rather amiable gentlemen and even humanitarians in their own way, it becomes easy to accept this conclusion as one supportable by fact.

PSYCHOLOGISTS ARE ON THE MARCH

It was a real field day out in Columbus, Ohio, when the American Association of Applied Psychologists met in convention. No holds were barred, and every psychologist with a burning message uttered it. Of what use is knowledge of the mind's working unless it can be trained to work right, they queried. Why have psychology unless it can be applied to daily living, solving major problems such as what to do with old razor blades, whether to kiss a new boy friend good night, and how to avoid war?

Vice President Richard H. Paynter had his helpful say. Mobilize the Nation's mental resources in best brain trust style; put psychology on wheels; send sound trucks over the country recording and analyzing public opinions on politics and other things; find out if one-third of the people need mental care, as they reportedly lack medical attention; give the mind doctors a chance to cure business, personal, domestic, labor, vocational and other ills, and if war does come, let propaganda march in and win it. It's just as easy as that.

Since anybody with a dollar and two can have cards printed attesting that he is a psychologist, applied or non-applied, and since they agree no better than other viewers—with alarm, on how to right the world's ills, they might start a war of their own trying to prevent another. Also, that plan for concentrating all the brainy people from campuses, pulpits, libraries and perhaps an occasional newspaper office, provides debate and repulsive possibilities, brains-measuring devices being as imperfect as they are. Perhaps this whole idea of applied psychology calls for applied psychology.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

It is pleasant to be able to report that last spring's forecast by master tailors that clothes for men were to have color, pleats and plenty of umph has not materialized.

The quartermaster general reports that the Army's use of mules dwindles year by year, which seems unfortunate. It means that ultimately the lurid language of the mule-skinner will no longer lend color and picturesqueness to military life.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BE HOME WHEN CHILD RETURNS FROM SCHOOL

THERE'S MANY a bridge hound out after game when the child comes home from school. About the most I have ever heard from youth was uttered by a high school girl in a public forum I conducted several months ago.

When we come home from school," she said, "we would like to find our mothers there, most of the time at least. But in most of the homes I know the mothers are off at a bridge party or some other function when their son or daughter comes home from school. It is not a very happy experience never to find mother home when one arrives.

Is this a very common practice?" I asked.

Yes, yes!" roared back the reply from many voices.

Then I explained that some mothers must work and cannot be home, therefore, early in the afternoon. A youth replied: That's different. When the mother works it is understood that she must be away from home. And their children are glad to make the sacrifice and to share. But when the mother chooses to be away nearly every afternoon, her children feel she thinks they don't count for much. And a mother cannot hire a substitute, especially as the children grow older. It is not the physical care they need or desire, but the companionship. They want to feel they are a much loved and enjoyed part of the family.

Problem Of Physical And Moral Safety

Habitual absence of mothers on school afternoons encourages the child to loiter on the way from school and therefore to face physical and moral hazards. This becomes a problem for working mothers, of young children who cannot afford to hire good substitutes. Many a working mother must worry herself almost sick because she cannot be at home to welcome her little child coming from school. In contrast, think of the mother who deliberately chooses to be nearly always absent—just for selfish pleasure!

But some conscientious mothers who are always home may have a child who will dawdle on the way from school. If you have such a problem, try to make his home-coming more attractive to him. Then if he continues to loiter, set a definite penalty for each offense, such as having him sit where you can see him, doing nothing, for an hour. Otherwise go to school and walk home with him until he can prove dependable in this matter.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A FARMER'S EXCHANGE

I have said something in this column about "Selling New Castle" because New Castle has become a city beautiful.

I will also have to say something about the country of which New Castle is the county seat. I used to hear a good deal about how the farms of Lawrence county were neglected; how the younger generation had ceased to be farmers; how their fields were not plowed and their barns not filled with the produce from the farm; that they had shined away their heritage. If such a state of facts ever existed in Lawrence county it does not now exist.

I traveled this summer out of New Castle on every paved highway, north, east, south and west, and I have never traveled through a more beautiful country. The farms are being cultivated. The barns are being filled. The farm houses and farm buildings are being painted and cared for. It used to be that the farmer did not have many shade trees around his house, that he did not tend to his lawn or his flowers. I find that Lawrence county farmers are doing it now.

There is every indication that the farmers of Lawrence county are a very active set of men attending strictly to the business of the farm. Now many cities in this country as large as New Castle are well supported by the population of the farms around about them, who travel to the city and sell their produce in that city and buy their necessities and their luxuries in that city. Such cities are the pride of many states that are called agricultural states.

Probably New Castle people have often thought of Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, as being the ideal farming community. It is a rich country and Lancaster farmers belong to the wealthy class of people.

But believe that Lawrence county farms and farmers are on their way to show Lancaster county that "Little Lawrence" is also in their class.

Those who wish to "Sell New Castle" should not forget this as a talking point.

We have noticed that quite a few of the people who pose as liberals want the other fellow to do the libeling.

Billfuzz—Speaking of kings and coronations, there's a big difference between kings of old times and the kings of today.

Fishneck—How do you figure that, Billfuzz? Well, in former times the kings used to keep fools. Now they say it's usually the other way around.

There is one place where some advertisers have not yet placed their signs and that is on the soles of shoes of those reclining leisurely.

Correct this sentence: "Let 'em fight" said the good American: "It won't hurt us any."

Fifer—You ought to be ashamed the way you encourage that Mrs. Chatterbox to visit. She does nothing but gossip about the neighbors.

Mrs. Fifer—Yes, I know. But as long as she is here she isn't running around talking about me to someone else.

Bartow—Do you have a large lawn at your home?

Boogy—I suppose you can hardly recognize him now.

Woogy No, it's worse, he hardly recognize me.

Dumm—Well, what do you think of the situation in Spain?

Dummer—I don't think much about it. I can't decide which side is right. You know there are two sides to every question.

Dumm—Yes, that is true—just as there are two sides to a sheet of fly paper. But it does make a big difference which side the fly lights on.

Prump—Darling, I love you as no one ever loved before.

Helen—Humph, I don't see much difference.

Readers' Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel—The groom has a young brother. Does etiquette demand that he be best man or may the groom's best friend perform this duty? The bride's family wishes to entertain for her. Would a shower be permissible?
Margery.

Answer—Usually the groom has his brother as his best man but it is not obligatory. He may, if he prefers, have his best friend.

An afternoon tea, a dinner or an evening party in her honor would be perfectly correct. The bride's family should not give showers in her honor for an invitation to a shower is merely an invitation to come and bring a gift. Such soliciting should be done by those outside the family.

Economic Chaos Follows War
Such Periods Held Inevitable
Could Have Softened Depression

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Republicans seem to me to be making a mistake in trying to combat the Democratic charge that the last few years of American hard times date back to the Hoover era.

They can do better than that. They can argue that the hard times seed was planted during a Democratic administration—when President Wilson permitted the United States to be drawn into the World War. Thus they would be in a position to blame the Democrats instead of having a Republican president blamed—and an offensive attitude always is preferable to a defensive one.

The G. O. P., however, entirely overlooks this bit, which, it appears to me, could be made a pretty good one.

CHAOS FOLLOWS WAR

A big war invariably is followed by a long period of economic distress among the peoples who were involved in it.

It is of historic record that an era of extended hardship has succeeded every great conflict. It was a century before Europe recovered from the Seven-Year struggle in an earlier age. Statisticians demonstrate that participants in Napoleon's strife were not economically sound again for another century. The late President, Melvin T. Traylor of the First National Bank of Chicago once spoke to me of our own panic of 1893 as the "last thunderclap" of our War of Secession in the 1860's.

It stands to reason that the effects of a major war don't pass in a hurry.

The World War's bad effects may still be felt in the year 2000, even though considerable peace reigns in the meantime.

WILSON TO BLAME?

That being the case, the World War was a first-class war to keep out of.

Yet Woodrow Wilson allowed Uncle Sam to be entangled in it. Possibly he could not avoid it, but it occurred with him in the White House. The Republicans can plausibly charge his regime with responsibility for our participation.

Now, our recent depressions unquestionably have been, at least in large part, post-war depressions.

HARDING NO STATESMAN

War times always are boom times. So are immediate post-war times.

Times under President Harding, President Coolidge and in early Hoover years, looked like extraordinarily good times—but they weren't so in reality.

I think that Presidents Coolidge and Hoover might have seen what was coming—and, maybe, have done something to modify the sequence. But they didn't. One can't blame Harding; he was a lovely chap, personally, but no statesman. Coolidge wasn't a super-intelligence either.

He is evidently thought that his administration's supposed prosperity was the genuine article. Hoover, possibly, should have had more sense, but he didn't. I interviewed him when he was commerce secretary, and he said we were living in a "new age of the world"—good times forever.

MORGAN SHORT-SIGHTED

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon knew better.

I interviewed him in early Hoover years and, in very discreet language, he advised investors to "bunt their holes"—for something was coming.

I came—with a bang! Roosevelt got in and certainly relieved the situation somewhat—but times assuredly haven't remained so satisfactorily subsequently.

It's astonishing to me that J. P. Morgan and his satellites didn't see what was impending. Why, at the senate's banking and currency investigation, subsequently, I heard them testify that they'd noticed the depression would be so serious.

Why? I, with only a few nickels toicker with, had realized it.

BEWARE ANOTHER WAR!

If Woodrow Wilson had kept us out of the war, we still would have felt the subsequent economic backwash.

I think our times would be rotten anyway.

They will be, anyway, for world reasons.

But, as between Republicans and Democrats, as between New and Old Democrats—hocey!

We'll have had world times for a long while to come.

And worse, if we have another world war.

The "Purge" Has Failed

NOW that the Nevada primaries have been held and the President has made his punitive expedition into Maryland, it seems worth while to check up on the great "purge." What are the results to date and what the prospects? It will be recalled that last year among the Democratic Senators who opposed the President's court-packing plan were nine who had to run for re-nomination this year. These included Adams, of Colorado; Loneragan, of Connecticut; Clark, of Missouri; Van Nuys, of Indiana; Gillette, of Iowa; Smith, of South Carolina; McCarran, of Nevada; Tydings, of Maryland; and George, of Georgia.

MOST OF these Senators had still further aroused White House resentment by refusal to vote for the reorganization bill, through opposition to a renewal of Federal pump-priming and exhibitions of distaste for other governmental policies. It was for the liquidation of these nine that Senator Guffey called in a Senate speech last summer. They were marked for slaughter at the White House. Spokesmen of the Administration repeatedly asserted that they had betrayed the people. In all the New Deal propaganda they led the black list as the first of the "traitors" to be "liquidated."

AFTER FULLY a year, during which its hostility has been demonstrated openly in some cases and covertly in others, the net result has been the re-nomination of seven of the nine listed for liquidation—to wit, Gillette, Clark, Smith, Adams, Van Nuys, McCarran and Loneragan. (Continued On Page Eight)

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TWO "FIRSTS"

Some things I remember against the world's clamor

As vividly now as when first they appeared:

The carpenter man with his saw and his hammer,

A mouthful of nails almost hid by his beard;

So clever, so friendly I thought him to be,

That carpenter man was a hero to me.

And there was the carter who called for our rubbish,

I gained a true friend when we happened to meet.

Though others perhaps might have been a bit snubbed,

He willingly took me up to his seat.

He gave me the reins, too, as he straightened the load,

And clackety-clack down the alley we rode.

These two in my memory still are survivors

Of all I have learned of the wide world since then.

I look with delight on all rubbish-curl drivers

And honor and envy all carpenter men.

And I'm sure it's because this remarkable pair

Were the first to invite me their secrets to share.

Plan To Build Four New Schools In Mercer County

Consolidations Are Contemplated As Result Of Proposed New Structures

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Sept. 8.—Four new school buildings affecting an equal number of consolidations will be built in Mercer county starting soon. They are estimated to cost $305,000 and are the result of the federal government's PWA offer of 45 cents on the dollar for construction program planned to start not later than September 30.

All buildings will be of the most modern type and represent an advance in the programming of rural education that establishes a criterion for the state.

The outstanding consolidation from a news standpoint is that of the two Shenango townships in Crawford county, Jamestown borough and Greene township in Mercer county. It is the only inter-county program listed. A high school building costing $75,000 is planned here.

The secondary schools will be housed in the present school building at Jamestown, Fredonia and Delaware, borough and township, respectively, built a new vocational high building costing $80,000. Hickory township is building an addition to its high school structure costing $60,000. The West Middlesex borough, Shenango township plan calls for a high school building costing $80,000.

Refuse Roof For Historical Home

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Sept. 8.—The State Board of Housing, engaged in an $88,000,000 housing program, today revealed it had received a request that it build a new roof on a log cabin that was built in 1730 and once housed George Washington.

The request was made by a resident of Embleton, Venango county, who wrote that "Washington blazed a road from here to Fort Venango along French Creek."

Charles V. Doyle, executive director of the housing board, said: "We regret that we cannot place a roof over this historic cabin. Our task is to provide 20,000 dwelling units called for in our $88,000,000 housing program."

The Great Game Of Politics

There remain only two—one, Senator George, of Georgia, for whose defeat Mr. Roosevelt personally and boldly appealed; and the other, Senator Tydings, of Maryland, into whose state he came on Labor Day, accompanied by his opponent, Congressman Lewis, that astute Master of Jobholders, Mr. James A. Farley, and various aides and advisers. The indications are that in Maryland and Georgia the President will not prevail and that Senator Tydings and Senator George will be re-nominated. But whether they are or not, it is clear the "purge" has already failed. Seven have been sustained by their constituents. The other two probably will be complete and overwhelming instead of merely decisive and emphatic. In this event, certain things about 1940 will be so clear that no one can mistake them.

FOR EXAMPLE, if, as a result of the "purge," all nine or even a majority—say five or six—of these independent Democratic Senators had been defeated, the New Deal control of the party convention in 1940 would have been conceded. It would have been clear that the Democratic voters wanted a continuation of Roosevelt leadership and no change in direction. It would have meant complete New Deal domination of the next session of Congress, too. It would have justified the claim of the radical White House group that all the voters needed to punish those who refused to follow Mr. Roosevelt was opportunity to let that being true, it is equally clear that the success of seven or eight or all of those listed for defeat will have quite the opposite effect. It means that the Democratic party in 1940 again will be in the hands of the traditional Democrats of the Garner, Harrison type; that the views of Democrats like Glass and Byrd of Virginia, will be sought and heeded; that the brains of boys at the White House will be important; that the day of New Deal domination will have ended and a return to the principles of the dishonored 1932 platform be certain.

Mr. Crouse, a competent social historian, has fortunately been impelled to write the story of these two romanticists.

In the middle Nineteenth Century almost every American home had at least one of these pictures. But they soon became out of date and because of this fact were almost lost to posterity. Then at the turn of the century they became a collector's item, to be rediscovered in attics and barns and to be shown the prints would think of hiding them, and some of them bring astonishingly large prices.

Mr. Crouse's book, "Mr. Currier and Mr. Ives" is in the library. Also several books containing reproductions of the prints, Clippings, ships, the Spirit of America and the Red Indian.

Mr. Crouse reports in a charming fashion the stories behind some of the most famous pictures.

Postmaster Steen Tells Kiwanians Of Postal Service Here

Explains Advantages Of Air
Mail Service To Business Interests

Postmaster R. A. Steen was the guest speaker of the New Castle Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon in The Castleton, Wednesday afternoon, and gave them a new insight into the great postal business of the nation, particularly as it applies to the air mail. He was introduced by William A. Francis, chairman of the program committee.

He told of the establishment of air mail service by the government in 1916, and of how it was later turned over to private enterprise. He stated that mail sent out of here on Monday morning to points on the Pacific coast receives an answer here by Wednesday afternoon.

Last year, he stated, a million dollars worth of mail order business was done by the local post office, which means that most of that money was going to mail order businesses. He stated that the greater part of this came from the rural sections of the county, which number 2,960 boxes. He advised local merchants to cultivate this prospective business.

Ten years ago, he told the Kiwanians, there were 56 mails coming into New Castle, today there are but 21, due to suspension of trains. The government has found motor service is not yet as reliable and consequently has not replaced the former train service. There is no mail locally from Cleveland, O., after 6 p.m., he stated, because of this fact.

Special guests included Capt. A. J. Oldham, of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, and Junior Kiwanians Dick Gilmore and Lewis Rough. Gilmore said farewell to the club as he leaves soon to enter college. He was presented with a handsome gift by Lewis Rough, as a token of the friendly association he has enjoyed as a Junior Kiwanian.

President Orville Potter was back in the chair after being absent last week.

(Special To The News)
STATE COLLEGE, Sept. 8. — More than 1,400 freshmen are on the campus of the Pennsylvania State College today at the beginning of freshman week, a period devoted to the orientation of new students.

Almost 3,000 applications for admission to Penn State were received by William S. Hoffman, registrar, because of the limitations of the physical plant and the present size of the faculty, admissions were limited to 1,405, selected on the basis of excellence in scholarship.

During the week before the opening of the academic year on Wednesday, September 14, freshmen are given opportunities to meet the deans of the seven undergraduate schools and the heads of the various college departments. Student counselors confer with them on problems concerning campus life. The students register, are given placement tests, physical examinations, and are instructed in library practice, and are taken on tours of Penn State's 200-acre front campus.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The late Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor for many years, and, more than any other one man, the builder of the American Labor movement in America, used to drive home one main idea on all occasions and at every opportunity. It was, "Don't get mixed up with the government any more than you have to. Be good citizens and vote for the friends of Labor; but don't let the government get on your neck."

In a sort of round-about way, I was reminded of this by the news story of the theft of $57,000-worth of FWA suits, by armed robbers in Brooklyn the other day. The lore of "guarding the mails," which has inspired so many thrilling yarns in hayloft literature, will be greatly expanded as the government gets more and more into business, acquires more and more property, eludes the citizens in closer and closer contacts, and, necessarily, strengthens and lengthens the arm of law enforcement.

Those secret service tales in which the government operators always got their mail-robber or counterfeiter, made the eagle on the operator's badge a fearsome and avenging creature. The pay-off, a thrilling climax, was when the quiet, gentlemanly officer, usually with a neat, black beard, drew back his coat and flashed that badge on the covering malefactor. Mail-robbers and counterfeiter were ideally cast as heavies in these plots. But what about the dramatic unities when they grab somebody who lifted a truck-load of PWA pants?

Traditional historians here have heightened the picture of Uncle Sam as a personage of power and dignity, administering unfailing justice. He was similarly august and Olympian, but he wouldn't have been if he had branched out too much in the market place.

It might not seem quite clear as to where Sam Gompers got his entrance cue for this piece. To me it is as plain as a pike-staff. The pudgy, paunchy and bald little Labor Napoleon, with a puffy nose, thick-lensed spectacles and steely, blue-gray eyes, expounded long and eloquently the danger which Labor would encounter with reliance on government rather than on its own effective organization.

"Start this and the government becomes your boss," he used to say. "If you put up a fight over wages or hours, you'll find a bayonet in your ribs, and instead of a striker you'll be a traitor."

I remember, in my early days as a reporter in New York, covering a small meeting in a dingy little East Side hall, in which Sam Gompers was debating informally with a visiting sociologist—an earnest man of the type of Raymond Robins, and possibly it was he. The latter was reproaching the unions, not unintelligently, I thought, for having refused to build or accept a social philosophy on which to base the Labor movement, and for having repulsed co-operation with the intelligentsia.

I was jolted quickly out of a misapprehension about the mind and personality of Sam Gompers. Brilliantly and cogently he expounded the origins and history of the individualistic theory of human society. He had read the books; he reviewed Bakunin, Kropotkin and Engels, in defense of his thesis that laws and government carried beyond their fundamental range of social protection and administering justice, unfailingly became Frankenstein, menacing the rights and the welfare of the individual.

"If labor is united and strong, if it is fair, and intelligent," he said, "it will get all that is coming to it, without government assistance or the enactment of new laws. Any increasing reliance by Labor on law and government in the future, instead of its own united bargaining power, will be the measure of Labor's impotence and failure."

I heard Samuel Gompers speak many times after that, and he almost invariably advanced this belief, but never with this academic background. That he reserved for the intelligentsia when he met them, and routed them on their own ground.

The philosopher, Bergson, extolled the "man who thinks like a man of action and acts like a man of thought." That was old Sam Gompers to the end, an unique blend of dynamics and intellect, as much at home in the field of abstract ideas as the best of them, with few people suspecting it as they watched him in the "hard and tumble" of the Labor movement.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL
BACKACHE
Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking poisonous acids and poisons waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.
Frequent or acute passages with stinging and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
If the 15 quills of the kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Dean's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Dean's Pills.

Presbyterians Of
East Side Church
Hear Dr. Wingerd

Dr. C. B. Wingerd, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, was the guest speaker Wednesday night at the Calvary Presbyterian prayer meeting in the Frisbee home, East New Castle.

Rev. W. J. Holmes states that the mid-week services have been well attended all summer, and that the largest attendance of the season greeted Dr. Wingerd. Members of the church have been very generous in opening their homes for these services, he says.

Dr. S. A. Kirkbride of New Wilmington assisted in the morning church services last Sunday, and his visit was greatly appreciated by the Calvary congregation. Several years ago Dr. Kirkbride was helpful in the organization of the Calvary church and ever since has been a warm friend of the congregation.

County Principals
Discuss NYA Plans

Principals of the various schools in the county met in the office of County Superintendent John C. Sylling, Wednesday evening, for the purpose of fixing the allotment of the various schools for NYA assistance.

The sum of $5,150 is available for this work among the youths in the county schools, Mr. Sylling has been notified. This is a great amount less than was available last year, and for this reason the various schools have to cut down on their demands.

Charge Is Made Against Driver

Charged with involuntary manslaughter, William W. Payne, of 407 Blaine street, was arraigned today by Alderman L. Claude Mantz and held in jail of $1000 for a hearing.

The circumstances out of which the charge arose occurred on July 9 when the car Payne was driving upset near Rose Point. Two passengers, Edward Garvin of New Castle and David Law, a 12 year old boy of Cleveland, O., were killed in the accident. The charge was

Enrollment In Public Schools
Is About 10,000

Totals of the first day registration in the public schools of New Castle show 10,003 enrolled, according to Superintendent C. C. Green.
This figure is under that of the first day of 1937 when 10,298 were enrolled.

Almost every city in the country shows a decrease in elementary schools this year and New Castle's decrease is 298. The high school shows an increase of 72.

The total, 10,003, will be increased daily until late in October if the enrollment follows the usual course.
For some reason the high total of the year is reached in October.

suit at the prothonotary's office against the Fleet Carrier Company of Pontiac, Mich., to recover damages to her car, struck by defendant's company's truck on the New Castle-Youngstown road. The car was being driven by David P. Mc-Bride at the time. It is claimed that the road was icy and that the truck was being driven at a high and dangerous rate of speed. The amount of damages demanded is $393.70.

An appeal from the decision of Justice of the Peace Joseph J.
Francis has been taken in the case of Arthur Brennenman against Steve Buchkoski in which the justice rendered judgment in favor of the plaintiff for $125. Defendant had given plaintiff a cot in part plaintiffs in these suits, which grew out of the building of the Edinburg viaduct, are not satisfied with the award of damages made by the commission and have appealed to court.

The county commissioners and Registration Clerk Thomas Ed-

registrations to be held throughout the county. In case of the districts it has been thought best to have two days for registrations. The places and dates are as follows:
New Wilmington, at fire department, September 19th and October 3rd.
Frizzleburg at H. H. Grossman's
gasoline station, September 20.
Harlansburg, Hotel of Joe Brown,
September 21 and September 30.

4th.
Wurtemburg, building of H. H.
Newton, September 26.
Wampum, borough building, September 27.
Princeton, Odd Fellows hall, September 27.

These registration days are only for persons who have not heretofore been registered who want to change their party affiliations, or who have moved from one district or precinct to another. The registration is to be conducted by the regular registration bureau so that any person from any district in the county may register at the most convenient place, which need not necessarily be in the precinct of the registrant.

LACK OF RAIN
INJURES CROPS

Rainfall Is Badly Needed In Certain Sections Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8. — Crops suffered generally in various degrees from lack of rainfall during the week with only Wednesday's precipitation aiding growth, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported today in its weekly synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Pennsylvania.

"Temperatures averaged normal with unseasonable coolness at the week's close, but no frost damage was reported," the report added.
"Wednesday's showers were not enough to remedy drought conditions, but they improved ground conditions."

"Flooding for fall seeding of wheat, barley and rye progressed with the aid of the showers." Corn ripened rapidly, especially in northern counties, and cutting and silo-filling is in progress elsewhere throughout the state. The crop is reported as a whole generally good to excellent.
"While still short in many sections and in need of rain, pastures and meadows showed some improvement after the showers. Late potatoes are mostly fair to good in eastern sections, but much blight is reported in the extreme northwest.
"Apples are ripening rapidly in all sections, with the crop generally light but of good quality. The peach season is about over, and no reports were received from tobacco sections."

To Open Court Defense Of Hines At Afternoon Session

State Concludes Direct Evidence

For Three Weeks Prosecution Has Been Presenting Mass Of Evidence

DEFENSE SEEKS TO ALLEGE "FRAME-UP"

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The defense goes to bat today at the Hines trial.

Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker was expected to offer a motion demanding dismissal of the indictment against Tammany Leader James J. (Jimmy) Hines when court is re-convened at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He probably will argue that the state has failed to prove its contention that Hines entered into a conspiracy to act as the paid "fixer" for the "Dutch" Schultz mob of policy racketeers.

When District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced last evening that "the people rest," Stryker obtained permission of the court to use the forenoon to prepare motions.

Mass of Evidence.

Dewey, in the past three weeks, has presented a mass of evidence against Hines designed to show that the Tammany district leader was involved in the Schultz policy "combination" that they paid him from $500 to $1,000 a week from 1932 to 1936, and that he used his position to "intimidate, influence and bribe" public officials, including two judges.

Four prosecution witnesses testified they personally paid money to Hines in behalf of the Schultz mob. In addition, Dewey presented evidence intended to corroborate the testimony of his four key witnesses.

The defense has sought to show that Hines was "framed," that three of Dewey's witnesses—George Weinberg, J. Richard Davis and Harry Schoenhaus, all ex-Schultz mobsters—got together and "ganged up" on Hines to save themselves from long penitentiary terms. All three frankly confessed they were members of the policy racketeering mob and said they personally paid money over to Hines. In addition, "Dixie" Davis' sister, Mrs. Rose Wendroff, said she paid money to the Tammany leader.

Mrs. Shields Will Receive Award For Teaching Record

New Castle Woman Has Taught Sunday School For Seventy Years

An outstanding Sunday school teaching record, one that probably will not be equalled in the state this year, is that of Mrs. Margaret C. Shields of 225 East Garfield avenue, who is a teacher in the First M. E. Sunday school of this city. Her application for the John Wanamaker award to be presented at the state convention in Clearfield, October 11, 12, 13 and 14 has been sent in to the state office today by the county president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., endorsed by her pastor, Rev. W. W. McLean.

Mrs. Shields, who is 85 years of age, has been a Sunday school teacher for 70 years starting at 15 years of age to teach a class at the First M. E. Sunday school of Blossburg, Tioga county, Pennsylvania. More than half of her teaching experience was at this Sunday school coming to the First M. E. Sunday school of this city thirty three years ago where she has been a teacher to the present time.

Perhaps the reason why Mrs. Shields has not received her fifty year award previous to this time, is because in former years it was necessary to be at the state convention in order to receive this honor. Starting with last year's convention at Hershey, however, the award may be presented to a representative from the particular county to which officers or teacher belongs, and it then can be brought back to the home county and publicly be presented there.

Pirates Upset Cincinnati In Crucial Game

Score Is 7 To 1 As Paul Waner, Rizzo And Klingner Star For Pittsburgh

CUBS, GIANTS BOTH WIN GAMES

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Confident of killing off Cincinnati's remaining pennant hopes, the Pittsburgh Pirates today sought their second straight victory over the Reds in the current "payoff" series destined to test the Bucs' right to the National League banner.

The burden of proof today lies strictly on the Reds, who now occupy third place, five and a half games back of the Pirates and a half game behind the Chicago Cubs. The Bruins, incidentally, cannot be overlooked in the National League stretch drive.

Pirates Top Reds
Pie Traynor's league leaders scored an important triumph in taking the series opener from the Reds, 7 to 1 yesterday, for the victory steadied the jittery Pirates and tacked on another game deficit on the fast traveling Cincinnati entry.

With only 28 games left to play, the Pirates boast a six-game margin in the lost column over the Cubs who must yet play only 24 contests. Of Cincinnati's remaining 23 games, eight are with Pittsburgh, hence the Reds still have a mathematical chance of overtaking the leaders.

With Paul Waner hitting "four for four" and Johnny Rizzo smacking his 16th home run, the Pirates trounced the Reds 7 to 1 as Bobby Klingner hurled his 10th triumph. Paul Derringer faltered for the Reds.

Cubs Down Cards
The Cubs beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7 to 5 on a nine-hit attack featured by Rip Collins' home run, but lost the services of pitcher Vance Page, who twisted an ankle, and utility outfielder Joe Marly, who suffered a serious head injury in a collision with Jack Russell in pre-game practice.

Aided by Jimmy Rippie's home run, the New York Giants rallied in late innings to down the Boston Bees, 6 to 3. Elbie Fletcher and Joe Shipp, homers, for Boston off Johnny Wittig's offerings.

Hugh Mulcahy held the Brooklyn Dodgers to three hits and pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6 to 3 triumph.

Sam Byers Wins Tennis Singles

Sam Byers won the City Junior tennis singles title by defeating Bob Meermans, Wednesday. Byers dropped the initial set 7-9. He came back strong, taking the next two sets by scores of 7-5 and 6-3. Byers reached the finals by defeating Reid, 6-3, 6-3. Meermans topped Blair, 7-5 and 6-0 to enter the championship round.

POLO GAME SUNDAY

The loss in will be at 3:30 o'clock. Daylight Savings Time. The Old Furnace team is leading the Western Pennsylvania polo league at the present time.

Robinson To Fight Corak

Midland Fighter Claims To Have Twice Kayoed Hutchison

Moon Robinson, Ellwood City fighter who made such a good showing recently in the Grove street playground ring will fight Young Corak of Midland in one of the eight bouts next Monday night. Corak, through his manager, Ross Parsy, claims to have kayoed Babe Hutchison twice some time ago.

This attraction, added to the Shelton Bell-Brune Michaels "go" should prove an incentive for fans to flock to see the last outdoor meet entertainment of the season.

Thomas Leach, the matchmaker, has six more bouts to arrange. Practically all of them have been closed, except for a final word from the out-of-town trainers who represent the fighters.

As soon as the out-of-door season is over the bleachers will be moved and the ring dismantled. The huge canvas which has surrounded the playground will be tucked to bed for the winter.

Practically all of the bouts in the playground have been well attended and have been enjoyed by the fans. Almost every one of the bouts has been good which augurs well for plenty of action Monday.

Giants Defeat All-Stars 6-0

Ward Cuff Former Marquette-Star, Steals Show In Game At Polo Grounds

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Ward Cuff, a tall, husky young man who spent his undergraduate days at Marquette, has warmed his way into the records as one of football's great kickers and as him almost solely was traceable today the New York professional Giants' third straight victory over college all-stars.

You might go further and say Cuff won the game all by himself, except that some one had to hold the ball when he kicked two field goals and teammates said that he was unmoistened.

The final score of 6 to 0 is pretty much the story of the game—a game that was listless and devoid of thrills and strategy. A Giant procession from the outset before a crowd of 40,000, a record-breaker for the charity event.

Not Very Thrilling.
It must have been the heat, which was quite terrific for a September evening, that slowed the game and deprived it of the spectacular, except for Cuff's booting. In any case, he practically stole the show by scoring twice from the 43-yard line with accurate placements on angle shots.

For his performance he was voted the most valuable player among the Giants, while to Andy Sapper, late of Villanova, went similar honors as representative of the collegians who shone on myriad gridirons last season.

Any of the Old Timers wishing to play in the game are asked to see either Tommy McCormick or Lou Falter.

Amateurs Tune Up At Oakmont For Tournament

Leading Amateurs Of United States, Canada And England Will Seek Title

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 8.—Elderly gentlemen, successful businessmen, aristocratic foreigners, collegians in sports clothes and youngsters, still in their teens and with borrowed clubs, began registering at Oakmont today in preparation for golf's most cosmopolitan show—the 32nd national amateur tournament.

From the four corners of the earth, golfers who have successfully passed the qualifying stages, tramped onto "Hulton Hades" as the course is affectionately known to club members, in the hope of garnering amateur golf's most coveted crown.

Oakmont Country club, stage for the present tourney which begins Monday September 12, is believed by most of the touring professionals to be the toughest course in this country and without the sea blowing gales which are a natural hazard at St. Andrews in Scotland, Oakmont is the toughest layout in the world.

Very Tough Course
The course is 7000 yards of head-aches to every golfer, be he good, bad or terrible. Par for the layout is the usual 72, and it is believed by competent observers, that the number of amateurs who break or shoot an even par in the metal rounds will be very few and farther between.

Some of the classiest golfers, however, will be competing. In a communique issued yesterday by the U. S. G. A. a total of 170 sinners were given the opportunity to give their all for a large fishbowl shaped cup and tons of publicity.

Trick Horseshoe Exhibition Tonight

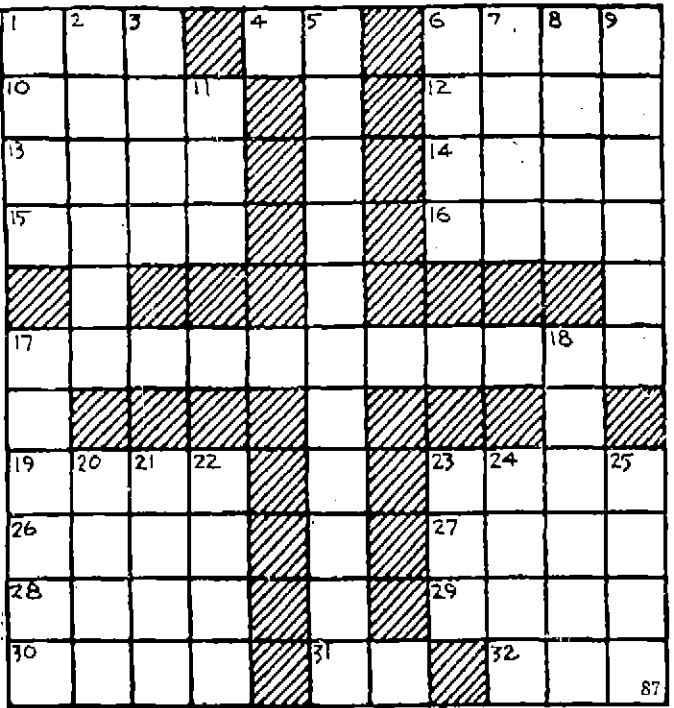

Jimmy Risk, world's champion trick horseshoe pitcher, will do everything but make the horseshoe talk, will appear at the Marino courts on Moravia street extension tonight at 8 o'clock. His opponents will be Paul Miller of this city.

New Castle Man Writes From City Of Jerusalem

The old and new Jerusalem, scenes on the narrow streets and a few other incidents about the Holy Land are interestingly told in a letter written by the Rev. Brother Edmund Cassella, of Taylor street, to a member of The News editorial staff.

Brother Cassella arrived recently in Jerusalem where he will spend six years doing missionary work. The letter follows:

Sunday Evening, August 21, 1938.
A few lines from the Holy City to say that I have had a very pleasant ocean voyage. I am attending Terra Santa college, here in Jerusalem. I must say that the city of Jerusalem, especially the old city within the wall, fascinates me tremendously.

The never changing customs of the natives, which one reads about during the time of our Lord, are still in use. There is no traffic regulation whatsoever and if there is, it sure is not observed. Men and women and even children can be seen walking up and down the narrow streets selling their various wares; asses, goats and the like also passing through or stopped, while their owners do a bit of bargaining.

From the top of the roof of our school, I get a beautiful view of old and new Jerusalem. The temple area with the first wall around it and the Mosque of Omar in the center. Beyond it, outside the walls, is Gethsemane with Mount Olivet just beyond Gethsemane. To my right, I can plainly see Mount Zion, the place of the Last Supper. Then to the left, and behind me, is the new Jerusalem, struggling to become a modern city. Some day it may, because even now there are many fine buildings and homes, but it will never change the old city within the walls.

It's really an interesting country and if ever you get the chance to visit Palestine, don't pass up the opportunity. To make a long story short, I am happy here and expect to find my work here very interesting.

There is one thing I crave for here and that is the New Castle News. I sure would enjoy keeping in close touch with my home town. Sincere regards to all the boys.
May God bless you,
BROTHER EDMUND CASSELLA

MEN LOVE PEP GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will love you to dance and parties.
BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "peppy" girls. When they go to parties they want girls who are full of pep.
So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told us how to get "peppiness" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.
You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!
